Georgetown (Texas) Generalities.

Everything is now quite lovely in Texas. The recent rains have made plenty of grass and a new spirit of enterprise seems to exist. The prairies are all covered over, with beautiful flowers of almost every kind and color. Indeed, are any which remind of what the young lady said to the little boy, "My dear, while he was wringing some trifling flowers for her, "Oh how lovely,"—she meant the flowers of course.

The click of the cotton planter and rattle of cultivators can now be heard in every direction. Farmers are the most busily engaged at present. I ever saw two more busy business occupants seem to be full of "new life and on the road to prosperity."

Some few third parties, who are waiting for congress to enact laws that will provide for them such things as they now stand in great need of, are doing but little. It's right disgusting to hear them say, "We will talk that party out." They seem as if they were greatly gratified if the third party was only strong enough to make war upon the government. Poor silly creatures. I'm quite sure it would take but very little to do them. Let me say a word right here to all young ladies—if you have been accustomed to talking politics, be guilty of it no longer. You are only making a display of your own ignorance, which intelligence will spur with contempt.

New counterfeit bank notes have been discovered at Fort Worth recently. This time it is the ten-dollar bill of the Fort Worth national bank that has been counterfeited. Among the persons who forged these bills are the Texas brewing company and the Crawford dry goods company. In both instances the bills were sent in with collections and the bogus money was readily detected and returned to the unsuspecting owners who had been defrauded. These bills were all made from the same mold, and it is believed that with the aid of acids was made what is termed a relief plate from the photograph. The signatures of President K. M. VanZandt and Cashier N. Harding were forged on the bill with pen and ink. A conviction exists in the minds of many that these bogus bills were all made in or near Fort Worth. That there has been a great deal of counterfeiting in those parts is evident. Matters have come to such a pass that every bill now presented is closely scrutinized and in many cases experts are appealed to before it is accepted. No clue to the identity of the shrovers of the money exists thus far. Captain C. Phillips, of the First National bank of Fort Worth, said that Fort Worth not long since looking after some counterfeit bills that had been passed in Fort Worth recently forged on the bank in Bowie.

The Deyer boys and Von Evans, the accused would-be train robbers, have decided not to have another examining trial, but to remain in jail until the next regular session of court and then try to beat the case. Why they refused to give bond I do not know, as they could easily fill a million dollar bond if they wished to.

A very interesting meeting is being carried on at this place by Rev. Nelson, of the Methodist church. The people of Georgetown's fairest flowers have been in constant attendance and if there was a Kentucky boy in town who did not attend it was on account of heart trouble.

The corn that was replanted after the freeze in March is looking well and I think if we have a few late rains there will be a good crop yet.

The players have come to see us again and the roar of shot guns would remind us of old soldier of war times.

We now have plenty of garden vegetables. How is this to the side of dear old Kentucky?

Kentucky is a beautiful country but there is nothing like that place we call home—Kentucky.

May THE HERALD AND ITS worthy editor ever be found among good people.

Dress Wives and Son Away.

Because his wife would not send their six-year-old boy out to work, John Moore ran both of them out of the home, threatening their lives. He lives at 631 East Main street, Louisville, Ky. One afternoon last week Moore dragooned too much when he came home and found his wife leaning against the little boy, who was sitting on the floor, playing with some building blocks. Mrs. Moore says her husband threw the block out of the window. Then, she says, he seized Johnny by the collar and shook him until the boy cried. At that, he made fun of the little fellow and said that he ought to be out working, as he was too young. The boy was too young to work. Then Moore said the boy was too young to live up, and started into the kitchen. He soon came out carrying a long butcher knife. When the boy saw his father, he ran screaming into the street. Moore did not attempt to follow his son, but turned and quivered, then ran home again for not making the boy work, and when she answered him, he threw the knife at her. The knife struck the ironing board beside her. While it was still quivering, he picked up a hatchet and started after her. She ran with all her might for the door, pursued by his husband, who was shouting, "I'll kill you." A number of men who had been standing at Bonham's saloon ran to her assistance. They disarmed Moore, who swore at and threatened to kill them. Mrs. Moore and her son went into a neighbor's house. She says she is afraid of her life and believes her husband is crazy.

How Much Will Cost.

The Weekly Courier-Journal has struck a popular note in its weather guessing contest, and with many numbers of entries taken in its offer of $1,000 for the closest guess to the earliest day and temperature during February, at Louisville, and much valuable information was gathered by subscribers on the subject. This contest has just been decided, being twenty-eight lucky guessers. The Weekly Courier-Journal thinks it is safe to add the same line. For the closest guess to the amount of rain that will fall at Louisville during the month of May, the Weekly Courier-Journal will give $1,000. This money will be divided into nineteen presents—one of $500, two of $100 each, two of $75 each, two of $50 each, and ten of $25 each. Each guesser must be accompanied by $1 to pay for one year's subscription to the Weekly Courier-Journal, the best Democratic paper published. The rainfall will be scientifically measured, to the hundredth part of an inch. The heaviest rainfall in May during the last twenty years has been 1.75 inches, and the heaviest precipitation of an inch. The lightest was one inch even. The measurements are made by the government officials of the weather bureau at Louisville. Sample copies of the paper with full particulars of the contest, will be sent free to any address. Write at once, as under no circumstances will any guesses be received after April 30th. Address Weekly Courier-Journal, Louisville, Ky.

What is the Weather, Please?

The most atrocious crime in the history of Magoffin county has just been committed. About three miles from Salverville, Ky., on Middle Fork of the Lick river, the eleven-year-old boy of J. T. Tillet, a prominent farmer, was strangled to death by his stepmother. Mr. Tillet was away at his son's home for the day, and his wife, Mrs. Tillet, was at home. The boy had been ill for some days past, but was much better on the last evening of his life. The family, consisting of the woman, the dead boy and a hired boy named Harvey, retired early, and about midnight, Mr. Tillet called the hired boy and told him to go to bed. The boy did not do so, and tell them that he was ill. The woman, and tell them that the boy was dead. When the neighbor got there he found that it was true, and on examining the body found finger prints on his neck. Foul play was immediately suspected, and some inquiries the woman made the day before about the effect of certain poisons on the human body. The woman was called in, and a jury summoned immediately, which returned a verdict of death by strangulation at the hands of the boy's stepmother. The woman is now behind the bars of the county jail awaiting for the law to deal with her.

Quarreling Whisky.

A negro named Douglas Wakefield, living on the farm of Oswald Thompson, the north part of Georgetown, Kentucky, was a drayman. He quarreled with a woman, and returning home sought a difficulty with one Thurman, a white tenant on the same farm. On being remonstrated with by Mr. Thomas, the negro turned upon him and opened fire with a revolver, firing three shots, one of which took effect in the foot, making a flesh wound. Soothsayer father Thompson, a young son of Mr. Thompson, rushed into the house, seized a shotgun loaded with birdshot, and fired two charges into the negro, causing wounds which will probably result in death. Wakefield was taken to Shelbyville and put in jail.

Ayer's Hair Vigor restores gray hair to its original color, makes it vigorous and abundant.

A Lynching in Sight.

A bold case of incendiarism and attempted murder occurred in Blount county, ten miles from Knoxville, Tenn., last week. A man named T. J. Shoemaker was arrested and lodged in jail at Maryville charged with the crime. After firing two large stock barns, valued at $3,000, he entered the residence of James Shouemaker and set fire to it. matches fired two shots at young Anderson while he slept. Both shots took effect, but are not serious. All the stock in the barns, consisting of several head of horses, mules and cattle, was burned. When the news of the incendiarism and attempted murder became known the farmers of the surrounding country were indignant and gathered in posse of one hundred strong, armed to the teeth. In the posse were two justices of the peace, who deputized the entire mob as deputies to hunt the would be assassin. When the mob had gone into the mountains, Shouemaker, fearing he would be captured, fled to Kentucky. Young Anderson went back to the house to make another attempt at murder, and was arrested. The indignant farmers swear they will lynch him. Shouemaker feigns insanity but his actions were from a spite caused by being discharged from the farm a short time ago.

Orange Brown's Luck.

While a colored man named Orange Brown was hunting cows near Paducah, Ky., he stopped to rest at an old stone stump. The stump was loose from decay, and he began to yank it up to pieces. As he did this, to his surprise, the iron kettle became exposed. He proceeded to investigate, and what he found was a great surprise. The lid had become fastened to the kettle by rust and was removed with difficulty, when, looking into the kettle, Brown discovered bright, shining gold coins lying in plain sight, but circled and stained by the heat of the kettle in others. He removed the coins at once and found himself in possession of three $20 gold pieces, fifteen $10 gold pieces and nine $5 coins, amounting in all to $255. There was also in the kettle, he said, what appeared to have been a very large sum of paper money, probably gold certificates, but he could not tell to pieces, being utterly worthless and not capable of being unfolded. He suddenly caught the figures of $20 as the wad fell to pieces. This is undoubtedly money that was hidden during the war by somebody who never lived to return for it.

He Held the Elder Under Water.

The Mormons have been having a great revival in Putnam county, West Virginia. It was baptism day and the river, the Gauley, a tributary of the Cheat river, a few miles above Clarks Lick. Among the converts to be baptized was an enthusiastic man named Peterson, who shouted "Glory! Glory!" at the top of his voice. Just as the elder dipped him he seemed to lose all control of himself, and in a minute he and the elder were struggling in such a violent manner that the elder was willing to let go, but the old man held to him, evidently trying to drown the elder. For fully ten minutes the struggle kept up; first one would be under the water and then the other. Finally the elder was apparently played out and the convert got him under the water for good. The elder held him under the water, shouting that he had drowned the man, and then, at that time men on the bank had come to the rescue, and several of them rushed to the man and forced him to let the elder go. The elder was insensible and did not come to for fully half an hour, and let us in a critical condition. The convert is violently insane and will be sent to the asylum.

Met and Married the Same Day.

A boy who gave his name as Will Green went into the Charity organization society office in Louisville, Ky., and wanted aid. He told Mrs. Dearing he and his father had started in a shanty boat from Bay City, Ill., on their way to West Virginia. When they reached Paducah, Ky., he says his father fell in love with a woman on another shanty boat moored near by. He says his father was so much in love with the woman that the two were married that night. When they went to get married, the boy says he went up in town. Later he returned to the river and found only one shanty boat left. That was the one to which the woman had belonged. The proprietor of it was so enraged because the woman left him. The boy says when he went to the river he found his father had been shot with a gun. The boy ran away and has been tramping ever since. He was sent to the Wayfarers' Lodge, but left when he found he had to wash for meals—Courier Journal.

Two Men Killed.

From the upper end of Pike county, Kentucky, comes the news that the notorious Frank Phillips, who figured so prominently in the Hatfield and McCoy feud, and William Bevin, his detecting, were killed last week near the Kentucky-Virginia state line, at the head of the Sandy river, by the Ricketts boys, who recently killed old man Ferrell in Logan county, West Virginia. Phillips and Bevin were in pursuit of the Ricketts boys. It is not known whether the killing took place in Kentucky or Virginia.

AT NIGHT.

The darkness gathers, the wind sobs loud,
I hear the weeping rain;
The heaven is wild with surging cloud,
My heart with its old pain.
How is it, then, with me—“tis lone,
My love, my bane, on the cold hillside,
In sound of the moaning sea?
Around me stretches in bleak, wild moor
Where I have made my home;
The wind's hard rattles at the door,
The wind's voice whispers: “Come.”
The eagles cleave in their mad flight
Heaven is as dark as the grave,
The stress and purpose of the night,
Its end and aim I know.
Fast, fast go they, and all one way—
Wind, rain and cloudy rack,
To weep and rave on thy lone grave,
And say to each tree back.

I open wide the rattling door—
Wind, rain and ground stream free;
Arrow the trees moor
I fly with them to the.

PART II.

It was a bewildering route for any one who was not accustomed to face Nature in her wildest moods. On the one side a great crag towered up a thousand feet or more, black, stern and menacing, with long basaltic columns upon its rugged surface like the ribs of some petrified monster. On the other hand a wild chaos of boulders and debris made all advance impossible. Between the two ran the irregular track, so narrow in places that they had to travel in Indian file, and so rough that a person could hardly have traversed it at all. Yet, in spite of all dangers and difficulties, the hearts of the fugitives were light within them, for every step increased the distance between them and the terrible despotism from which they were flying.

They soon had a proof, however, that they were still in the jurisdiction of the Saints. They had reached the very wildest and most desolate portion of the pass when the girl gave a startled cry and pointed upward. On looking up, she had been taken, showing out dark and pale against the sky, there stood a solitary sentinel. He saw them as soon as they perceived him, and his military challenge of “Who goes there?” rang through the silent ravine.

“Travelers for Nevada,” said Jefferson Hope, with his hand upon the rifle which hung by his saddle.

They could see the lonely watcher fingering his gun, and peering down at them as if disconcerted with their reply.

“By whose permission?” he asked.

“The Holy Four,” answered Ferrier. His Mormon experiences had taught him that that was the highest authority to which he could refer.

“None from seven,” cried the sentinel.

“Seven from five,” returned Jefferson Hope promptly, remembering the countersign which he had heard in the garden.

“Pass, and the Lord go with you,” said the voice from above, beyond this point, and bounded out, and the horses were able to break into a trot. Looking back, they could see the solitary watcher leaning upon his gun, and knew that they had passed the outlying post of the chosen people, and that freedom lay before them.

CHAPTER V.

THE ANGELS.

All night their course lay through intricate defiles and over irregular and rock-strewn paths. More than once they lost their way, but Hope's inti-to come hurtling down upon them, and the earth trembled. Illusion, for the barren valley was thickly strewn with trees and boulders which had fallen in a similar manner. Even as they passed, a great rock came tumbling down with a hoarse rattle which woke the echoes in the silent gorges, and startled the weary horses into a gallop.

As the sun rose slowly above the eastern horizon, the caps of the great mountains lit up one after the other, like lamps at a festival, until they were all ruddy and glowing. The most brilliant cheered the hearts of the fugitives and gave them fresh energy. At a wild torrent which swept out of a ravine they called a halt and watered their horses, while they partook of a hasty breakfast. Lucy and her father would fain have rested longer, but Jefferson Hope was inexorable. “They will be upon us by this time,” he said. “Everything depends upon our speed. Once safe in Carson, we may rest for the remainder of our lives.”

During the while of that day they struggled on through the defiles, and by noon they calculated that they were more than thirty miles from their enemies. At night time they chose the base of a beetling crag, where the rocks offered some protection from the chill wind, and there huddled together for warmth; they enjoyed a few hours' sleep. Before daybreak, however, they were up and on their way once more. They had seen no signs of any pursuers, and Jefferson Hope began to think that they were fairly out of the reach of the terrible organization whose enmity they had incurred. He little knew how far that iron grasp was almost dark before he again found himself in a defile which was familiar to him. Even then it was no easy matter to keep on the right track, for the moon had not yet risen, and the high cliffs on either side made the obscurity more profound. Weighed down with his burden and weary from his exertions, he stumbled along, keeping up his heart by the reflection that every step brought him nearer to Lucy, and that he carried with him enough to insure them food for the remainder of their journey.

He had now come to the mouth of the wild defile in which he had left them. Even in the darkness he could recognize the outlines of the cliffs which bounded it. They must, he reflected, be awaiting him anxiously, for he had been absent nearly five hours. In the gladness of his heart he put his hands to his mouth and made the glad echo to a loud hallo as a signal that he was coming. He paused and listened for my answer. None came save his own cry, which clattered up the dreary, silent ravines, and was borne back to him on countless reflections. Again he shouted, “They will be upon us by this time,” he said. “Everything depends upon our speed. Once safe in Carson, we may rest for the remainder of our lives.”

When he turned the corner, he came full in sight of the spot where the fire had been lit. There was still a glowing pile of wood-ashes there, but it had evidently not been tended since his departure. “The same dead silence still reigns all round. With this, his fears changed to despair, for he knew that the friends whom he had left such a short time ago. A vague, nameless dread came over him, and he hurried onward frantically, dropping the precious food in his hasty.

With this, his fears changed to despair, for he knew that the friends whom he had left such a short time ago. A vague, nameless dread came over him, and he hurried onward frantically, dropping the precious food in his hasty.

Bewildered and stunned by this blow, Jefferson Hope felt his head spin round, and had to lean upon his rifle to save himself from falling. He was essentially a man of action, however, and speedily recovered from his temporary impasse. Seizing a stone from the surrounding fire, he blew it into a flame, and proceeded with its help to examine the little camp. The ground was all stamped down by the feet of horses showing that a large party of mounted men had overtaken the fugitives, and the direction of their tracks proved that they had afterward turned back to Salt Lake City. Had they carried back both of his companions with them? Jefferson Hope almost screamed with despair, for he knew that his friends had gone so, so soon, that his eye fell upon an object which made every nerve of his body tingling with alarm. A little way on one side of the camp was a low-lying heap of reddish soil, which had assuredly not been there before. There was no mistaking it for anything but a newly-dug grave. As the young hunter approached it, he perceived that a stick had been planted on it, with a sheet of paper stuck in the left fork of it. The inscription upon the paper was brief, but to the point:

JOHN FERRIER.

FORMERLY OF SALT LAKE CITY.

Died August 4, 1869.

WE SAW THE OLD MAN AND THE YOUNG GIRL CROUCHING OVER THE BLAZING FIRE.

“What is it?” the Mormon asked un-easily. “Be quick. The very rocks have ears and the trees eyes.”

“What has become of Lucy Ferrier?” “She was married yesterday to young Drebber. Hold up, man, hold up, you have no life left in you.”

“Don't mind me,” said Hope, faintly. “Be quick to the very lips, and had you down on the stone anvil which he had been leaning. “Married, you say?”

“Married, yesterday—that's what those drags are for on the Endowment house. There was some words between young Drebber and young Stangeron to which was to have them. They'd both been in the party that followed them, and Stangeron had shot his father, which seemed to give him the best claim; but when they argued it out in court Drebber's party was the stronger, so the prophet gave her over to him. No man's he had been long, though, for I saw death in her face yesterday. She is more like a ghost than a woman. Are you off, then?”

“Yes, I'm off,” said Jefferson Hope, who had risen from his seat. His face might have been chiseled out of marble, so hard and so set was its expression, while his eyes glowed with a fatal light.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—The French chemists are experimenting with gold, and in a recent test it was found that a dog would die at nearly eight degrees below zero, while a small could live to one hundred and ten degrees above.

—The simplest way to tell iron from steel is to pour on the metal a drop of nitric acid, and allow it to act for one minute. On rinsing with water a grayish-white stain will be seen if the metal is iron; a black one if it is steel.

—Henrik Ibsen, the Norwegian author, carries a small mirror and comb, and from time to time he glances at his hair, and if any part of it appears to be in place he forthwith combs it into the disorder that imparts to pictures of him that scared expression.

—Archduke Eugene of Austria, who was a year ago a candidate for the archbishopric of Prague—which went to a non-Catholic—he has taken his parents, Jewish peasants, to live with him in his palace, and has accepted the command of an infantry brigade stationed at Olmütz.

—Hret Hartie, although past fifty and in poor health, is a very handsome man. His face retains an appearance of youth, while his hair is silvery white. He has a slender figure and an erect and graceful carriage. He is a chivalrous and much sought after in society, but goes out infrequently.

—William Watson, the English poet, has entirely recovered from his recent attack of insanity, and is writing once more with all his unstemmed grace and chivalry. His new poems, which will soon be published in the London papers, will have already been copy-righted in America.

—The first President Harrison, “Tippecanoe” of historic fame, left many descendants, two of whom live in Washington. They are named Reynolds, and they have their names in their possession a big haircloth armchair that was given to “Tippecanoe” by the ladies of Indiana. It is very uncomfortable, as there are great raised flowers, done in words, and an American eagle in beaded work.

—Recently-published pictures of Andrews show that his remarkable son, the second old man, is now an eminent statesman, and in the portraits of him the ages of three and ten are there no indications of an extraordinary growth of hair; in fact, at those ages, his hair was straight and short, but by the time he reached eighteen his head had begun to assume the appearance that is now familiar to the music-loving public.

—Galusha A. Grow, just elected congressman-at-large from Pennsylvania, is one of the most interesting living links connecting the present with the past. When he entered politics Lincoln and Sherman were country lawyers, Grant was a captain in the Union army, and Garfield a simple stable-driver on the Ohio canal. He saw Clay and Webster in their old age and Sumner and Everett in their prime. Mr. Grow will be seventy-one next August.

THEIR COURSE LAY THROUGH INTRICATE DEFILES.

more knowledge of the mountains enabled them to regain the track once more. When morning broke, a scene of marvellous though savage beauty lay before them. In every direction the great snow-capped peaks hemmed them in, peeping over each other's shoulders to the far horizon. So steep were the rocky banks on either side of them that the larch and the pine seemed to be suspended over their heads, and to need only a gust of wind to come hurtling down upon them. Nature had been most ingenious. Illusion, for the barren valley was thickly strewn with trees and boulders which had fallen in a similar manner. “What is it?” the Mormon asked un-easily. “Be quick. The very rocks have ears and the trees eyes.”

“What has become of Lucy Ferrier?” “She was married yesterday to young Drebber. Hold up, man, hold up, you have no life left in you.”

“Don't mind me,” said Hope, faintly. “Be quick to the very lips, and had you down on the stone anvil which he had been leaning. “Married, you say?”

“Yes, I'm off,” said Jefferson Hope, who had risen from his seat. His face might have been chiseled out of mar-

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

—Cheep Fritter. One and a half cups of sugar, two cups of flour, three eggs, one small teaspoonful soda dissolved in a teaspoonful of boiling water, one cup of flour. Mix thoroughly for ten minutes. Always measure flour before sifting.—Prairie Farmer.

—Consume: Beat two eggs, add two tablespoonsfuls of milk, a quarter of a teaspoonful salt, put in a buttered cup, set in a pan of warm water and cook in a slow oven until firm in the center. When cold, cut in very thin lengths or fancy shapes. But it burns.—Farm and Home.

—Currant Pie. Fresh or canned ripe currants may be used. If fresh use one cup currants and one-half cup water to each pie. If canned there will be one cup juice. Use one and one-half cups, two beaten eggs, one heaping teaspoonful of corn starch, one cup of sugar. Bake in one crust and cover with a meringue.—Farm, Field and Fireside.

—Beef Stew. Soak a plump of white beans in soft, lukewarm water overnight. Put them in a kettle the next morning, with three quarts of cold water and one pound of salt pork. Boil slowly for two hours, keeping the kettle well covered. Add a little celery and cayenne pepper; simmer half an hour longer, strain through a colander and serve.

—Ginger Snaps. 1. One cup of butter, one cup of brown sugar, one table-spoonful of ginger, one cup of molasses, slice to taste; one teaspoonful of flour. Pour enough to make it stiff, before shaping out in eight cups of flour, two cups of sugar, two cups of molasses, one and one-half cups of shortening, two eggs, one heaping tablespoonful of soda; ginger, cloves or cinnamon.—Ohio Farmer.

—Stuffed Reefsteak: A thick slice of round steak is beat for stuffing. Prepare dressing as for a turkey and spread it over the meat. Turn back the other part and tie together closely. Season the outside with salt and pepper, sift over a little flour and place it in a flat-bottomed kettle or stew pan, in which is previously heated a tablespoonful of butter. Cook not too fast until both sides are browned, then add a teaspoonful of water, cover closely and cook until very tender. Take it up now, remove the stitches, add a little thickening to the gravy, and when seared pour it over the meat, or if preferred serve from a trencher.—Orange Judd Farmer.

—Boiled Indian Pudding: Two cups Indian meal, one cup white flour, one-half cup finely-chopped suet, one teaspoonful corn-meal, one-quarter cup molasses, two cups dried apples, one pint hot milk or water. Soak the apples in warm water until soft, chop the suet until fine, sift meal, flour and salt together, add the suet, then the apples (which may be chopped if preferred), mix well while dry, then add molasses and rinse out the cup with the hot milk and add to the pudding cloth out of hotwater. Boil the mixture slowly and put the pudding into it, tie it up leaving plenty of room for it to swell. Before mixing the pudding have ready on the stove a large pot of boiling water and keep the water boiling all the time the pudding is cooking. Roll five hours, and eat hot with molasses.—Boston Globe.

Curious Features.

—A mustard fritter is a very delicate "savoury." Measure out a cup of milk and add it to half a cup of flour, pouring the milk over it very gradually to make a smooth batter. Then add a well-beaten egg, and cook the batter in a double boiler for twenty minutes. At the end of this time add two yolks of eggs, a pinch of nutmeg, a small handful of raisins, and let the mixture boil over the stove for a minute or two longer, beating it carefully to thoroughly mix it. Pour it into a long greased pan of proper size to spread it to the depth of one inch. Let it become thoroughly chilled. It is just as well to stand over night. The next day cut it into long pieces, about two inches long, three deep in a heating oven, then in fat, and crisp, browning it very gently, as it is soft. Fry it in hot fat until it is a delicate golden brown, and serve at once. These are delicious fritters when flavored with a very little bitter almonds or some grated orange peel. They may be made into an excellent savory fritter by adding a few sausages and adding a tablespoonful of潘司干 cheese and a pinch of cayenne pepper. Serve with a little grated潘司干 cheese.—St. Louis Republic.

Washing the Hands.

According to German physiologist, the art of washing the hands is not an easy one. To insure absolute cleanliness the hands must be carefully washed with a soap and water, and then with a five-per-cent solution of carbolic acid, or one per thousand solution of corrosive sublimate, or chlorine water. When the finger nails are dry and break easily, vaseline rubbed on after washing the hands will do a world of good. Manicures are to be had at the first bath the day after washing the hands, removing the superfluous skin about the onyx, then polish the nails with buckwheat and fine powder, washing the hand again in hot water with soap. After drying, the nails are polished with a fine brush and are finally rubbed with a rosy rouge to give them a shell pink.—St. Louis Republic.

Disastrous Failure.

We can mention no failure more disastrous than that which occurs when it involves the partial suspension of the digestive and assimilative processes, and entails the temporary or permanent derangement of the kidneys. Only through the great efforts of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters can the restoration of its former strength be attained. For weeks, the only sure and safe assumption of activity in the stomach, liver and bowels may be relied upon. Bittertum's Bitters conquer malady and kidney trouble.

THE HERALD

SPENCER COOPER, : : : : Editor.

HAZEL GREEN, KY.:

THURSDAY, : April 26, 1894.

YOU'LL FIND IT HERE.

Hardin county, Kentucky, already has an announced candidate for the legislature.

The Franklin county (Ky.) grand jury returned 100 indictments at its recent session.

Ex-Governor Thomas J. Taylor has been appointed United States senator from North Carolina, to succeed the late Senator Vance.

Henry Bowling, once sentenced to death at Mt. Sterling, Ky., for killing See Brown in 1865, received only a two years' sentence on the second trial.

Three moonshine distilleries and a large quantity of liquor were destroyed in Perry and Leslie counties, Kentucky, last week by the sheriff.

Peter Mottet, a dissolute St. Louis drunkard, committed suicide by taking poison. He pawned his wife's wedding ring for money to buy the drug.

More than one section of the community says that the editor of one of our exchanges says he will take on subscription anything that he can eat or wear.

This year, according to the entomologists, the caterpillar pest is so bad that nearly thirteen million tons will appear in the summer with us, beginning to arrive in May.

Saloons in Ohio will hereafter be carried on as openly as any other business. The law will not prohibit screens, curtains or other devices to hide the interior of a room where liquor is sold.

During a storm near Griley, Ill., lightning struck a barn owned by Richard Breeze. The stable was destroyed and a hired man named Bend, who was stunned, was burned to death.

A jurymen in Missouri pleaded in extenuation an act of violence of a court that he had the right to believe that and concept of wife, he rather thought the court would be more merciful.

A prominent Clark county farmer, who has been a man of practical sense, says there is more money in five acres of a well-cultivated apple orchard than there is in twenty acres of tobacco.

During the past eleven industrial plants throughout the country have shut down, while thirty-two have resumed operations, giving employment to 3,000 persons who were in enforced idleness.

Seven months ago Justice Patterson, of Charles City, Iowa, the Falwell, Falwell, County, Ky., and last week the Falwell, Patterson guilty and fixed his punishment at two years in the penitentiary.

Senator Patterson attempted to kill in the Senate to prevent the state bank bill, but preventing the issuing of money by state banking institutions or by any other corporation or person except national banks.

General W. S. Smith, of Salt Lake City, says he has not abandoned hope of a financial appropriation for Kentucky river improvements, and will urge the committee to name at least $800,000 for Kentucky's part of this session's appropriations.

Chillicothe physicians say that there is an epidemic of bowel and stomach trouble in that city, and that it largely due to the impure condition of the drinking water. The only safe-guard, they claim, is to boil the water before drinking it.

A mob of Ohio men, women and children, led by the injured wife of a deceased husband from the town of Dasher, held the woman with whom he had been living beneath the spout of a railroad water tank until she was compelled to leave.

Democrats of the Second congressional district nominated Judge Willis L. Reeves, as a candidate for Judge of the Kentucky court of appeals. A convention was held at Hazel Green, Ky., and all the counties in the district were represented save Breckinridge and Edmundson.

Newport, Ky., has a magistrate who will not, or rather prefers not, perform marriages. His name is John B. Johnson. He says such ceremony is too sacred and should only be performed by a minister of the gospel. He says if he had the say so that all the feasts he should be married by a magistrate.

The state weather bulletin, just issued, shows that pasture in California is getting dry, and the cattle are getting thin and the valley. The central and southern portions of the state are suffering more from the drought than the mountain valley. The prospects for good rains are very bright everywhere. The short crops of grain and hay are in excellent condition.

Major Helvet, teacher of languages at State college, Lexington, Ky., was taken with a paroxysm of pain in his heart, and Major Helvet is about sixteen years old and is said to be a German baron who was banished from his native land for taking part in the revolution. He is the son of a Major in a Kentucky confederate regiment in the late war. He is well known among educational men.

A bill involving a crime scheme that Cox is carrying on in the state was last week by Representative John Blair, one of the earlsonists of Kansas brought to trial. The bill provides that the secretary of state, or his designee, shall be entitled to an industrial army of $500,000, to be employed on public works and paid a regular salary. The bill also provides that the expenses of the scheme is to be met by issuing state bonds of $100,000,000.

The Danielite Advocate says: "B. A. Gould and his wife, after some time spent in Carroll county, Missouri, has returned to his old Kentucky home near here and asked to be forgiven. Among other products of Missouri and Kentucky he has to offer is a gun. A drop of forty or fifty degrees while you are eating breakfast is a small matter; and twelve and fourteen inch ice is considered the norm. He is a man who acts frequently like that described in a recent letter from George Hackley, now in northern Mexico. He told of a man who came near being killed by a snarled one-millimeter, but recovered from the effects of the heat in the afternoon, only to be frozen to death that night."

GOOD ROADS.

One county in America has appropriated $20,000 for good roads, the taxpayers believing that the sum expended in this way will be a first class investment.—Ex.

The foregoing excerpt is only one of the many instances that have come under our observation during the past few weeks, and it shows plainly that the entire country is being awakened to the necessity of bettering the condition of all country roads, as well as those of the town. For fully six months in the year farmers of this section find it almost impossible to bring their produce to market, and these are the very months when produce is in greatest demand and the farmers then have more time to attend to it.

Let the people of Hazel Green and Wolfe county wake up to the important fact that good roads at all seasons of the year are a blessing and of great benefit to all. It is quite true that our grandfathers hauled heavy loads over these same roads year after year and never complained, but we are now living in a progressive age, and what seemed a great benefit to our grandfather, and even fathers, is now considered too far behind civilization.

Not only do good roads facilitate the bringing of produce to market at all times, but they also enhance the value of property. Prospectors and home seekers going into a country where bad roads are predominant soon turn back and look for better localities, where they can get to market without danger of losing their teams or breaking down their wagons by getting stuck in the mud. Now is the time to go to work and do something toward bettering the condition of the roads in the vicinity, and it is a short while everybody will wonder why it was not done sooner.

CAMPTON IN THE PLACE

Where the Democratic Congressional Convention will be held, July 10.

The members of the Democratic committee of the Tenth congressional district met in this city Tuesday evening at 10 o'clock, and selected the place to be the meeting place and manner for nominating a candidate for congress. The committee was deadlocked for several hours on the motion to hold a primary election all over the district, and the amendment to hold a convention, the vote being a tie—8 to 8. Some of the committee members were in favor of holding a primary, and decided to let the chairman, but that gentleman doubted his right to vote as chairman of the committee, where there was a tie; so the committee resolved to wait, until Judge H. C. Campbell of this city, who is in favor of a district convention to be held, and hence it is optional with the county committee of the several counties as to how delegates should be selected, by primary election, precinct meetings or mass convention. This question was adopted.

On Saturday, July 7, the committee of the county committee called a mass convention, same being held at the county seats of fourth Saturday in July, and delegates from the general convention, thus dispensing with the necessity of a meeting on the first Tuesday in July.—See Democrat.

Starrett Convention.

At a meeting of the Democratic committee of the Tenth congressional district held at Mt. Sterling, Ky., April 17, 1894, all the members were present in person or by proxy. On motion it was resolved, That a convention to nominate a candidate for congress be held in this congress at the town of Campion on the second Tuesday in July, next, at 10 o'clock a.m., and the delegates thereto shall be chosen in each county on the fourth Saturday in June at 2 o'clock p.m.

The Democratic committee of each county will be responsible for selecting delegates, either by primary election, mass convention, or precinct conventions. If the latter mode is designated the delegates selected at the precinct meetings shall meet at the county seat on the Tuesday following to select and nominate a candidate for the district convention. If a primary election is held, the candidate receiving the highest number of votes shall be entitled to receive the vote of the county in the district convention.

There is a right smart stir in Morgan now for a railroad and a railroad tax, too, but I think the people of Morgan county have too much sense to vote such a thing as a railroad tax upon themselves. I can speak for the people of Upper Grassus, predict that there will be no railroad in the county of Morgan, and that it will be better to have a railroad tax than a railroad. It is, although there are a great many people in Morgan who have been led by petty politicians and a few insignificant townsmen of this county, and who will always continue the same way. If we judge from the present state of affairs, the people of Morgan are not only opposed to a railroad tax, but they are opposed to those who are in favor of it, and I will give $10 to the candidate who is in favor of a railroad tax for every vote he receives in this precinct at the November election, 1894. HAZEL GREEN, Ky., March 19, 1894.

Messer. DaBoise & Webb, Louisville, Ky.—Gentlemen—Through the kindness of Mr. Spencer Cooper, editor of the HAZEL GREEN HERALD, I was afforded an opportunity to try the efficacy of your "Electropoise," and I must say that it acted like magic—almost a miracle to me. I was taken down with inflammatory rheumatism on the 1st inst., and in 24 hours my legs were swollen, and my limbs ached with pain almost unbearable. I had no use of elbow, hips, knees or feet, and in this helpless condition I emitted a groan on the 10th, the time when Mr. W. H. Edby & Co. offered to treat me for free.

I had no faith whatever, but like a drowning man catching at a straw, consented to its use. In four hours the pain left my leg to which the "poise" was attached, and I continued to grow better until the following Monday, when I was able to sit up all day, and had not a pain about me. Today (10th) I was still my business, and as I was still I was ever ill. I should add that just two years ago I was confined to my bed for four months by a similar attack that the "poise" might have cured in four days. I believe now, and hope all who are afflicted as I was will try the same remedy.

Gratefully yours, F. N. DAY.

We are acquainted with the facts in this case, and can vouch for the truth of the above.

HAZEL GREEN, KY.:

THURSDAY, : April 26, 1894.

YOU'LL FIND IT HERE.

Hardin county, Kentucky, already has an announced candidate for the legislature.

The Franklin county (Ky.) grand jury returned 100 indictments at its recent session.

Ex-Governor Thomas J. Jarvis has been appointed United States senator from North Carolina, to succeed the late Senator Vance. Henry Bowling, once sentenced to death at Mt. Sterling for killing Mrs. Brewer in 1892, received only a ten years' sentence in the second trial.

Three moonshiners distilled and a large quantity of liquor were destroyed in Perry and Lexington, Kentucky, last week by revenue officials.

Peter Mortel, a dissolute St. Louis shoe-inker, escaped untroubled by taking poison, the same day he left his wife's wedding for money to buy the dress.

Money is so scarce in some sections of the mountains that the editor of one of our exchanges says he will take an subscription myself.

This year, according to the estimatologists, the seventeen-year blents and their young or thirteen-year consuls will spend the summer with us, beginning to arrive in May.

Salmon fishing will be suspended and carried on as openly as other business. The new law prohibits screens, curtains or other devices to hide the interior of a room where hunting.

During a storm near Giddings, Ill., lightning struck a barn owned by Richard Bresser. The building was destroyed and a hired man named Rench, who was stunned, was buried under the debris.

A burglar in Missouri pleaded in extenuation of an act of contempt of court that he had the choice between that and contempt of wife; he rather thought the court would be more lenient.

A prominent Clark county farmer, who has given the master a practical test, says there is more money in his acres of a well entitled to a good orchard than there is in twenty acres of tobacco.

During the past week eleven industrial plants throughout the country have shut down, while only two have resumed operation, and the number of employees is 50,000 persons, who were in enforced idleness.

Several months ago Lucia Patterson killed Charles Hines, in Greenwood, Pulaski county, Ky., and last week she was found Patterson had been arrested at his punishment at two years in the penitentiary.

Senator Putner introduced a bill in the Senate respecting the state bank tax, but, failing to get a majority of a single, appropriate sum for Kentucky, he withdrew the bill and will urge the committee to move at least $300,000 as Kentucky's part of this session's appropriations.

Chadwick says that there is an epidemic of bowel and stomach trouble in that city, and that it is largely due to the impure condition of the drinking water. The only safe water they claim is to boil the water before drinking it.

A rash of blind men, women and children, led by the injured wife, stoned a faithless husband from the window of a shelter, and held the woman when he lay dead, having been beneath the spot of a railroad water tank until she was almost drowned.

Democrats of the Second appellate district nominated Judge W. L. Beves, as a candidate for the state legislature, in place of appellee. The convention was held at Howling Green, and all the counties in the district were represented save Breckinridge and Edmonson.

Newport, Ky., has a magistrate who will not, or rather prefers not, to perform a marriage ceremony. His name is Justice Beaman. He is an old man and infirm, and should only be performed by a minister of the gospel. He says if he had the service relative or friend of his should be married by a minister.

The state weather bulletin, just issued, shows that pasture in California is getting scarce, drying rapidly in the foothills and the valleys. The central and southern portions of the state are suffering severely from the drought the Sacramento valley. The prospects for a good fruit crop are bright everywhere, short crops of grain and hay are excellent.

Major Helveti, teacher of languages at State college, Lexington, Ky., was stricken with paralysis Friday morning last. Major Helveti is an old man, about 70 years old, and said to be a veteran whose wife was banished from his native land for taking part in the revolution of 1848. He was major of a Kentucky, Confederate regiment in the last war. He is well known among educational men.

A bill involving a cedar scheme that Cox's was to be a part of in Congress last week, was introduced by Representative Cox, and the curiosities of Kansas brought to the front by the Populist upheaval. He proposed that the Secretary of War, an industrial and agricultural society to be formed on public works and be paid a regular salary. The small master of the expense of the scheme is to be not less than $200,000,000 of flat money and annually increased $100,000,000.

The Danville Advocate says: "R. A. Ginde and family, after spending three months in Carroll county, Mo., have returned to their Kentucky home near here and asked to be rehomed. Among other products of Missouri that he can't take is the weather. A dress of form and color which will not eat and fourteen leeks is considered thin. In fact, the weather is so bad he is unable to get a job, and is writing a letter to George Buckley, now in northern Mexico. He told of a man who came near being killed by a snake one morning, but recovered from the effects of the heat in the afternoon, only to be frozen to death that night."

CAMPTON IN THE PLACE

Where the Democratic Congressional Committee will be held, July 10.

The members of the Democratic county committee of the Tenth congressional district met in this city Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, for the purpose of selecting a time, place and manner for nominating a candidate for congress. The committee was dead set for a meeting at the hall of the local grange, which is all over the district, and the arrangement to hold a convention, the vote being a tie. Sand 8. Some of the committee insisted on Chairman Vanous casting the deciding vote as chairman, but that gentleman insisted that the convention be held in his city and also as chairman of the committee, where there was a tie so the matter rested as it was, until Judge H. R. French, of this city, made a motion that a district convention be held, and leave it optionary with the county committee to hold a primary election, or to have a primary meeting, or mass convention. This motion was adopted.

Then, after several ballots were taken as to where the convention should be held, and, finally, the date, Campion, Wolfe county, was selected as the place and date, July 10th, the time.

In case a county committee call a primary election or precinct meetings, same shall be held on the second Saturday in June, and on Tuesday following the precinct delegates with all the delegates at the convention, and all delegates to the general convention. Should the county committee call a mass convention, same shall be held at the county seats the fourth Saturday in June, and delegates selected to the general convention, thus dispensing with the necessity of a meeting on the first Tuesday in July.—Senate Democrat.

District Convention.

At a meeting of the Democratic committee of the Tenth congressional district, held at Mt. Sterling, Ky., April 17th, 1894, after the election of a chairman, it was decided that the delegates to be chosen in each county on the fourth Saturday in June at 2 o'clock p.m. The Democratic committee of each county shall determine the manner of selecting delegates either by primary election, mass convention, or precinct conventions. If the latter method is designated the delegates selected to the precinct meetings shall meet at the county seat on the Tuesday following to select and instruct the delegates to the district convention.

If a primary election is to be held, the delegate receiving the highest number of votes shall be entitled to receive the votes of the county in the district convention.

If we judge from the present state of affairs, the people of this precinct are not only opposed to a railroad tax, but they are opposed to those who are in favor of it, and I will give $10 to the candidate who is in favor of a railroad tax for every vote he receives in this precinct at the November election, 1894.

There is a right smart stir in Morgan

now for a railroad and a railroad tax,

but I think the people of Morgan county have too much sense to ever vote for such a railroad tax as this.

I speak for the people of Upper Grayson precinct that there will never be a vote cast in favor of a railroad tax in it, although there are a great many people in Morgan who have been led by petty politicians and a few insignificant persons to believe that a railroad tax will always continue the same way.

THE HERALD

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Congress.

We are authorized to announce JOSEPH K. MC CALLISTER, of Floyd county, Kentucky, a candidate for Congress from the Tenth Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce MARCUS C. LISLE, of Clark county, as a candidate for Congress from the Tenth Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

For Sheriff.

We are authorized to announce SAM HENRY WILSON as a candidate for sheriff of Wolfe county, subject only to the will of the people at the polls in November, 1894.

For Justice of the Peace.

We are authorized to announce R. M. CECH of Stillwater, as a candidate for Justice of the Peace for the Holly and Stillwater district, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Primary election, May 26.

We are authorized to announce J. H. VEST of Gillmore Creek, as a candidate for re-election to the office of Justice of the Peace for the Hazel and Lee City districts, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Primary election, May 26.

We are authorized to announce JAMES H. SEBASTIAN, of Davytown, as a candidate for Justice of the Peace for the Hazel Green and Lee City Magisterial district, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Primary election, May 26, 1894.

Born, on the 19th inst., to the wife of Haskell Sale, a boy.

Bruce Mareum, of Jackson, was in town Saturday and Sunday.

Floyd Day, of Clay City, was in town several days this week on business.

A number of our male citizens are in attendance at circuit court this week.

Charlie Keyser, of West Liberty, was a guest of the Day House Tuesday night.

The whole-souled H. B. Maupin sold several good bills for D. H. Carpenter, while here last week.

Wm. H. Cord will talk at the Christian church next Sunday night. Subject: "The Lord's Supper."

Jovial John H. Pieratt has been drawn as a petit juror for the May term of the U. S. court at Covington.

The Clark county fair association met on the 18th inst., and elected officers and directors. The fair is to begin August 22 and continue five days.

The merchants of the mountains are requested to persuade the ad. of H. G. Feder, Cincinnati, and when needing anything in their line send them an order.

Failing to receive our regular Campion correspondence, we are unable to give any court news this week, but will endeavor to have a full report for our next issue.

The Democratic committee of Wolfe county will meet at the court house, in the town of Campion, on Monday, May 7, 1894, at 11 o'clock a.m. A full attendance is requested.

H. F. PIERATT, Chairman.

All mountain people who visit Cincinnati will find no better place than the St. James Hotel to stop at. No better hotel can be found anywhere, while the gentlemanly managers excel themselves in providing for the comfort of their guests. See card in THE HERALD.

Ho. M. Kendall spent Saturday night in town en route to Campion to be present at the opening of circuit court and renew acquaintance with his many friends. Jo is looking well and feels sanguine in regard to his chances in the congressional race.

A letter from Mr. Spencer Cooper informs us that he will return home tomorrow (Friday), accompanied by his better. He visited Cincinnati while away and purchased a Campbell cylinder press, several fonts of new job type, a large stock of fine stationery, etc., and now is the accepted time to send in your orders for all kinds of printing.

The attention of all the readers of THE HERALD is called to the liberal offer made by the Racket Store, Lexington. Mr. J. D. Purcell wishes to find out how many people read THE HERALD, besides giving the greatest bargains to all his customers. Remember the place, 11, 13 and 15 W. Main street, Lexington, when you want bargains in dry goods, etc.

Rev. F. M. Tinder, of Maylack, will be here on May 8, and will begin a series of meetings at the Christian church on the following night. Let every person arrange to hear him throughout the meetings, and all will surely be benefited. He preaches the gospel in purity and simplicity. All who heard him when here last year speak in glowing terms of him, and don't whether he made the trip or not. Unlike the rest of his folks, he is a Democrat from way back.

Elsewhere in THE HERALD will be found the adv. of the Merchants Job Lot House, Cincinnati, with we commend to all merchants in the mountains.

Louis Stix & Co., Cincinnati, have a card in this issue of THE HERALD, and all merchants would do well to get their prices before sending their orders elsewhere.

Word reached here yesterday that a wedding took place at Ezel, to which Miss Genie Cockrell and Mr. John Rice were the high contracting parties. No doubt "Blurt" will furnish us with the particulars next week.

Through the courtesy of Hon. M. C. Lisle we are in receipt of a handsomely bound volume of the obituaries of the late Hon. J. W. Kendall. The frontispiece is a true and life-like steel engraving of Mr. Kendall, and is readily recognizable by all who knew him.

The stockholders of the Hazel Green association will meet at the floral hall, the fair grounds, on Saturday, May 5, 1894, at one o'clock p.m., for the purpose of electing officers and board of directors for the ensuing year.

H. F. PIERATT, President.

We heard it incidentally remarked the other day that within the past ten years twenty-two persons living in, and in the vicinity of, Hazel Green had withdrawn from active mercantile pursuits in the town, only one of whom retired with a competency sufficient to lead a life of ease.

Taking into consideration the hard times and scarcity of money among the farmers, W. T. Swango has reduced the price of service for his celebrated Jack, Rosco, to the low price of $6. This figure will bring him within the reach of all, and every breeder should take advantage of it.

A more belonging to Rev. Willis F. Lykins, of Grassley, which was bred to Blue Grass Beauty last season, dropped a colt about ten days since which is said to be a perfect image of his sire. Blue Grass Beauty is the property of Ray Mose, and can be seen at W. T. Swango's stable in this place any day.

Wed was brought to our city Monday that Sam Salyer, of West Liberty, resigned the office of county attorney for Morgan county, and our friend Isaac W. Rose, of Maytown, was appointed and sworn in to fill the vacancy. Ike is a candidate for the office at the coming election, and being very popular with the good people of Morgan, will no doubt be chosen for the full term.

An infant child of Boone Oldfield, living on Grassley, about four miles from Hazel Green, met a serious accident on Tuesday morning. During the absence of Mrs. Oldfield from the house, the child got hold of a rag and was flinging it into the fire, when it was ignited, and almost instantly the child's clothing was in a blaze. Before aid could reach the unfortunate child it was severely burned about the face, arms and legs, but it is thought the child may recover.

Inasmuch as young folks will get married and go to housekeeping, we would refer them to our advertising columns and consult the numerous offers held out by the various merchants whose ads. can be found there. But some of the principal articles necessary for successful housekeeping are good furniture, a nice carpet and a good stove. For this reason we commend all our readers to the adv. of March's Furniture Store, Lexington, which will be found on the first page of THE HERALD.

Mr. Lou Day requests us to say to the ladies of Hazel Green and the surrounding country that she has just opened a full and complete line of millinery, dry goods, notions, ladies' dress goods, etc., which she will sell at the lowest price for cash or produce—butter, lard, chickens, eggs, or anything she can use for the table. She has a nice line of trimmed and untrimmed hats, for spring and summer, which will be added to from time to time, so that the very latest styles can be found here. She also has a fine line of toilet articles.

Sylvester O'Hair, of Swango, Ill., is visiting friends and relatives in this section. Uncle Sylvester went west from here twenty-seven years ago, and this is the first visit he has made since his departure. He seems greatly impressed with the many improvements and changes that have taken place in Eastern Kentucky, and says it is the first place he ever saw a man trying to ride to Heaven on horseback, which scene he witnessed while on his way here. He lost sight of the rider in the clouds, and don't whether he made the trip or not. Unlike the rest of his folks, he is a Democrat from way back.

Rev. F. M. Tinder, of Maylack, will be here on May 8, and will begin a series of meetings at the Christian church on the following night. Let every person arrange to hear him throughout the meetings, and all will surely be benefited. He preaches the gospel in purity and simplicity. All who heard him when here last year speak in glowing terms of him, and don't whether he made the trip or not. Unlike the rest of his folks, he is a Democrat from way back.

The declamatory contest held at the academy chapel last Friday evening for the purpose of selecting a man to represent the Hazel Green academy in the Blue Grass Declamatory league, was one of the most formidable in the history of the school and resulted in a victory for H. Clay Lacy, of Lacy Creek. The second award was not made, being divided between S. M. Nickell, of White Oak, and Jos. F. Taber, of White Oak. The other speakers of the evening were A. C. Jones, Daysboro; E. W. McKinney, Owingville and A. D. Lacy, Lickburg. While each of these young gentlemen did remarkably well, especial praise is due the winner and his two most formidable competitors. They showed themselves complete masters of their subjects and demonstrated to their select audience that mountain oratory is a thing to be admired. THE HERALD congratulates Mr. Lacy upon his hard-earned victory and here's hoping he will carry off the honors at Winchester on June 1. The music by Miss Robertson and pupils, supplemented by the Academy Glee club, was another interesting feature of the entertainment. Their selections were fine and well rendered. The following schools are included in the league: Hazel Green academy; Harrodsburg city school; Harrodsburg academy; Danville city school; Illogset school; Danville city school; Cynthiana city school; Lawrenceburg city school; Stanford city school; Lexington city school; and Alleghany academy, Lexington. Competent and impartial judges will be selected, and two gold medals will be awarded.

The grand opening of spring millinery goods of Mrs. Lou Day, last Monday, was a remarkable success, and the ladies who attended it gazed in wonderment at the beautiful array of bonnets, hats, ribbons, flowers, dress goods, etc., and were astounded that such elegant goods could be brought to Hazel Green. Mrs. Lou Day is never behind the times.

ANATOMY NOTES.

Logan Linden, of Lee City, is on the sick list this week.

Miss Mary Sartan, of West Liberty, is on the 23d.

A. D. and F. C. Lacy spent Saturday and Sunday in West Liberty.

We understand that Wm. Culbertson has returned from his trip of "seeing the country." Would not he have been better had he remained in school?

Mrs. Emma Congleton and Bertie Phillips, and H. C. Phillips, J. F. Taber and S. F. Hamilton attended the funeral of Mr. Hanks, at Campion, last Sunday.

Prof. Doane and J. C. Fulks, of Campion, called at the academy on the 18th inst. The professor was pleased with our school and gave it enthusiastically of the Academic Home.

H. Clay Lacy will represent us in the Bluegrass league contest, to be held at Winchester June 1. Should he not be able to go, either S. M. Nickell or Jos. F. Taber will be there.

Some of our young men have "quit school to raise a crop." We think they have made wrong calculations, for they fail to turn up field fulness, and they will probably fail to obtain certificates. Perhaps "raising crops" suits them better. —ACADEMITE.

AYER'S Hair Vigor

Restores faded, thin, and gray hair to its original color, texture, and abundance; prevents it from falling out, checks tendency to baldness, and promotes a new and vigorous growth. A clean, safe, elegant, and economical hair-dressing.

"Nine months after having the typhoid fever, my head was perfectly bald. I then turned to Ayer's Hair Vigor, and before I had used it half a bottle, the hair began to grow. Two more bottles brought out as good a head of hair as ever I had. On my recommendation, my brother William Craig made use of Ayer's Hair Vigor with the same good results." —Stephen Craig, 832 Charlotte St., Philadelphia, Pa.

A Solemn Marriage Ceremony.

A strange wedding ceremony took place at Columbus, Ohio, recently. It was the marriage of a daughter at the bedside of her dying father and at his request. Edward Babbitt, an old soldier, with a record to be proud of, had been ill for a week, and had been in a few days, and the attending physician announced that he could not live through the night. Mr. Babbitt's eldest daughter, Miss Jenny, is his favorite child, and, to her knowledge, was soon to be married to John Seydel, a son of that city, it was the father's wish to have the ceremony performed in his presence and before his death. Accordingly, and in the hasty preparations made for the ceremony, and, standing by the bedside of the dying man, the sacred words, pronouncing the couple man and wife, were said. The ceremony was witnessed only by the members of the families of the contracting parties, and was impressive in the extreme.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers may more than they know. Jonathan Kenson, of the Wayne county, Iowa, who has been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about a prominent German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words, "It cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and wife were sick in bed with rheumatism. Their legs were so bad that he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by John M. Rose.

One of the Sturdy Old Stock.

Grandma Wray, of Fairbury, Ill., who has just celebrated her one hundred and second birthday, says: "I hear people talking of hard times now. Why, if those people who are indulging in that kind of talk should see me as hard times as I have experienced in my life, insane asylums would have to be established in every county and would be enlarged to hold the crowd. Many times have I taken the axe and gone with my brothers and sisters to the hills of Virginia and entombed them. We girls used to cut just enough wood to heat the house. We would swing the axes with every bit as much vim as they. Where is there a girl of fifteen years nowadays that will do like that? Many times have I taken a hired man's place in the field with a hoe, cultivating tobacco, corn and even cotton."

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking a dose of Dr. Orr's Balsam and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by John M. Rose.

A Horrible Crime.

A terrible double crime and suicide is reported from Gilead, W. Va. Last Thursday when Mrs. Rodabaugh, wife of Lloyd Rodabaugh, a prosperous farmer and land owner, returned from a visit to a neighbor, she missed the usual presence of her husband and children. Mrs. Rodabaugh entered a bedroom at an end of the building and was horrified to find the two little children, one of whom was 3 years old and the other 5—hanging to a rafter in the ceiling of the room. In another room the body of her husband was found. Life was extinct in all the bodies, and had been for several hours. No cause can be assigned for the horrible crime, but the general belief is that Rodabaugh was insane at the time.

A Bloodthirsty Negro.

A negro淫棍 occurred Friday night last at North Middletown. It seems that Mr. C. C. Priest, who conducts a grocery store at that place, became involved in a difficulty with a colored man named George Thomas who was standing around after making a small purchase. The negro upset a bottle of ink, and upon being reprimanded for his carelessness, struck the merchant with a stone and then dared Mr. Priest to come out and settle the matter. When Mr. Priest turned to get something to defend himself, the negro sprang upon him, biting his ear entirely off, after which he chewed it to a pulp and tossed it away. Thomas left immediately, and has not yet been arrested.—Kentucky Citizen.

You can relieve that headache you have by buying a box of Migraine at THE HERALD office. It will only cost 60 cents and is sold on a positive guarantee.

Fish Your Weather.

The following data from the record of observations for the month of May taken at the weather bureau station in Cincinnati for a period of twenty-three years is interesting. The warmest May was that of 1881, with an average of 70.6 degrees, and the coldest that of 1891, with an average of 59.6 degrees. The highest temperature during May was 84°, on May 20, 1874, and May 27, 1875; the lowest temperature was 35° degrees on May 22, 1888. The greatest monthly precipitation was 8.47 inches in 1882, and the lowest was 1.02 inches in 1871. The average number of cloudless days was 9, the average partly cloudy days 14 and the average overcast days 17. The winds have been from the southeast. The highest velocity of the wind during any May was 36 miles from the northwest on May 11, 1889, and on May 5, 1893, from the southwest. The average day on which the "killing" frost occurred in spring was April 29.

Our better halves say they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds. Sims, Brooks, Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which it is held. It is a good product, sold for years and is well known. Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, cough and whooping cough, that it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by John M. Rose.

A Fish Brown on Eagle.

At the mouth of Octoraro creek, four miles above Port Deposit, is a bed of gravel, where sand, rock and herring go to form large schools of fish to go to this locality, and bald and gray eagles flock to the vicinity for the purpose of preying on them. The water on the Cecil county side is about 10 feet deep, and, being clear, the fish are readily seen by their wings.

A gray eagle saw a rockfish in the water, and seized upon him, sinking his talons deep into the side of the fish. When the bird attempted to arise he found the load more than he could carry. He could not release his hold, either. Finally he was dragged under the water and drowned. The current carried the fish and bird into a float, where the baldies were found, with the hold of the eagle unbroken. The fish weighed 16 pounds, and the bird measured six feet from tip to tip of the wing.—Baltimore Sun.

A Famous Day.

April 19 will always be remembered as the anniversary of the death of the first martyrs in the greatest two wars on the American continent. The battle of Lexington, between the Minute Men, of Massachusetts, and the British, on April 19, 1775, was the first struggle of the American revolution, and the first blood was shed in the suppression of the gigantic American rebellion, the fight occurring between a mob of Baltimore citizens and the Sixth regiment of Massachusetts volunteers.

Bronk on Wedding Day.

A very mysterious wedding took place in Anderson, Ind., one morning last week. The contracting parties came in from different directions on the early morning trains. They obtained a license, giving their names as A. L. Daily, Detroit, and Frank B. Burch, Lexington, Ky. Immediately after the ceremony, they performed by Squire Fleming, they got a car and proceeded to take in the town becoming intoxicated. They went to Muncie, Ind. They had plenty of money.

Unlucky Thirteen.

The figure "13" seems to have figured quite prominently in the life of the poet King, who recently died at Bowring Green. According to the Bowring Green, he was born on the thirteenth of the month; he was a member of a family of thirteen; he cast his first vote just thirteen years ago; he had thirteen children; he had appeared on the stage just thirteen times with Orie Reed; he sat down to a table with thirteen at the banquet the night of his death, and that thirteen pennies were found in his vest pocket.

Neglect of the hair often destroys its vitality and natural hue, and causes it to fall out. Before it is too late apply Dr. Hall's Hair Renewer, a sure remedy.

An Incurable's Work.

Dr. Priest, a well known merchant of Jessup, on Salyersville, Ky., was destroyed by fire last week. Two fine horses and other property to the amount of $750 were lost, and the total loss is about $2,000. No insurance. The fire was the work of an incendiary. In attempting to save some of the live stock Wiley Ware was seriously burned about the face and hands.

W.H. WOODWARD.

The following data from the record of observations for the month of May taken at the weather bureau station in Cincinnati for a period of twenty-three years is interesting. The warmest May was that of 1881, with an average of 70.6 degrees, and the coldest that of 1879, an average of 61.2 degrees. The highest temperature during any May was 94 degrees on May 30, 1874, and May 27, 1875; the lowest temperature was 35 degrees on May 22, 1883. The greatest monthly precipitation was 8.47 inches in 1882, and the lowest 1.02 inches in 1871. The average number of cloudy days is 9, the average number of cloudy days 14 and cloudy days 8. The prevailing winds have been from the southeast. The highest velocity of the wind during any May was 86 miles from the northwest on May 1, 1889, and on May 6, 1889, from the southwest. The average day on which last "killing" frost occurred in spring was April 20, 1874.

they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Comedy Remedy. It has been used in more than half the homes in Leeds. Sims Brothers, Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which that remedy is held when it has been sold for years and is well known.

Chamberlain's Comedy Remedy is nothing good for colds, coughs and whooping cough, it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and it is pleasant and safe for children to take. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by John Rose.

A Fish Devours an Eagle.

At the mouth of Octocaro creek, four miles above Port Deposit, is a gravel bar, where shad, rock and herring go to spawn. The young fish from former large schools of fish go to this locality, and bald and gray eagles flock to the vicinity for the purpose of preying on them. The water on the Cecil county side, about 10 feet deep and, being clear, is easily seen and is devoured by the winged enemies.

A gray eagle saw a rockfish in the water and pounced upon him, sinking his talons deep into the side of the fish. When the bird attempted to arise he found the load too heavy to be carried and so it retired to his usual roost. Finally it was dangled under the water and drowned. The current carried the eagle and the fish into a fishpot, where the bodies were found, with the hold of the eagle unrelaxed. The fish weighed 10 pounds, and the bird measured six feet from tip to tip of the wing.—Baltimore Sun.

A Famous Day.

April 19 will always be remembered as the anniversary of the death of the first martyrs in the greatest two wars on the American continent. The battle of Lexington, between the Minute Men, of Massachusetts, and the British, on April 19, 1775, was the first struggle with bloodshed, and the battle of Bunker Hill, on April 19, 1861, the first blood was shed in the suppression of the gigantic American rebellion, the fight occurring between a mob of Baltimore citizens and the Sixth regiment of Massachusetts volunteers.

Drunk on Wedding Day.

A very mysterious wedding took place in Anderson, Ind., one morning last week. The contracting parties came in from different parts of the country to witness the marriage. They obtained a license from their mates as A. L. Bailey, Detroit, Mich., and Terence Badlow, Palmetto, Ky. Immediately after the ceremony, which was performed by Squier Fleming, they got a cab and proceeded to take in the town, becoming intoxicated. They went to Minear, Ind. They had plenty of money.

Unlucky Thirteen.

The figure "13" seems to have figured prominently in the life of the newest Bon King, who recently died at Bowling Green. According to the Bowling Green Star, he was born on the thirteenth of the month; he was a member of a family of thirteen; he cast his first vote just thirteen years before the day of his death; he had performed on the stage just thirteen times; with Opie, he sat down at a table with thirteen at the banquet the night of his death, and that thirteen pennies were found in his vest pocket.

Necklets of the hair often destroy its vivacity, natural hair, and cause it to fall out. Before it is too late apply Hall's Hair Renewer as a remedy.

An ironing-board.

The heavy and frail stable of Jeff Proter, a prominent merchant and hotel man, of Salyersville, Ky., was destroyed by fire last week. Two fine horses and other property to the amount of $750 were lost, and the total loss is about $1,000. The fire was the result of his carelessness in lighting a pipe. The negro servant of the house was seriously burned about the face and hands.

Devoted Back to Their Cells.

Wm. Deasby, the murderer of Martineau, and his father and two brothers, who were implicated, waived their examining trial and were sent back to jail until the May term. They were allowed the freedom of the corridor, to talk to their wives, take exercise, etc., of this privilege they made a desperate effort to overpower Jailer Nixon and escape. The citizens of Owingsville responded in a body and drove them back into their cells.

A letter from Mr. Spencer Cooper informs us that he will return home to-morrow (Friday), accompanied by his better. He visited Cincinnati while away and purchased a Campbell cylinder press, several fonts of new job type, a large stock of fine stationery, etc., and now is the accepted time to send in your order for all kinds of printing.

The attention of all the readers of THE HERALD is called to the liberal offer made by the Racket Store, Lexington, Mr. J. D. Purcell wishes to find out how many people read THE HERALD, besides giving the largest bargains to all his customers. Remember the place, 11, 13 and 15 West Main street, Lexington, and when you want bargains in dry goods, go to THE HERALD.

Rev. F. M. Tindall, will be here on May 8, and will begin a series of meetings at the Christian church on the following night. Let every person who is a stranger to him throughout the meet-arrange to hear him throughout the meet-arrange to be benefited. He preaches the gospel in its purity and simplicity. All who heard him when here last year speak in glowing terms of him, and we believe he will meet with a warm and hearty welcome at his return.

'Elsewhere in THE HERALD will be found the adv. of the Merchants Job Lot House, Cincinnati, which we commend to all merchants in the mountains.

Louis Six & Co., Cincinnati, have a card in this issue of THE HERALD, and all merchants would do well to get their prices before sending their orders elsewhere.

The declamatory contest held at the academy chapel last Friday evening for the purpose of selecting a man to represent the Hazel Green academy in the Blue Grass Declamatory league, was one of the most formidable in the history of the school and resulted in a victory for H. Clay Lacy, of Lacy Creek. The second award was not made, being divided between S. M. Nickell, of Index, and

Who Is Your Friend?

When this question goes around the Business Circle the answer comes back, "The one who can give the best values for the least money." Having been in the market at a recent sale, I have been doing up, I have been able to purchase some rare bargains, which shall be the gain of my customers. Give me your ears while I quote you prices:

ELEPHANTINE LIFE.

Steps to be Taken to Prevent Its Wanton Destruction.

One of the pressing questions of the day is the African elephant, which will soon become extinct there at no distant date unless means are taken to stop the indiscriminate slaughter now going on. There has been a prevalent notion that the African elephant is inferior to his Indian cousin. Intelligence and documents can be found on the subject.

It is now known, however, that the Romans and Carthaginians used the African beast to good purpose, and Mr. P. L. Sclater, of the London Zoological society, declares that they have had African elephants in their gardens for more than twenty years and have found them quite as intelligent as those of the Indian elephant, although perhaps not quite as docile. A young male African, now about fourteen years of age is daily engaged during the summer months in carrying the children and other visitors about the gardens, and there has never been an accident with him.

Mr. Sclater's present opinion is that the African elephant should be protected, as the proper beast of burden to open up the great continent, and suggests that a thousand of Indian elephants and their attendants be transported to the east African coast, where the Indian elephants get to work in capture and tame their African brethren. It is noted, moreover, that Gen. Gordon, just before the fall of Khartoum, wrote a letter in which he strongly advocated the domestication and use of the African elephant.

Her Higher Education.

Cousin Hugh—Whereaway so early, and in such a hurry, this breezy morning?

Miss Brundt (fresh from medical studies in Vassar)—Don't detain me, I am going to help to move my old friend Mrs. McWherter.

"Anything wrong?"

"Wrong? I should say! Yesterday she said she was going to wire her husband. And I didn't even know he was dead. He'll make a lonely skeleton, and I can show her just how he should be wired."—Pittsburgh Bulletin.

Fronomous as to transportation.

Laura—If paper gives him consent, George, dear, when you go to ask him, won't you be fully transported with joy.

George—(somewhat apprehensive)—Yes, Laura, and if it shouldn't happen to strike him favorably and he's feeling right well I shouldn't wonder if I'd be considerably moved anyhow.—Chileno Tribune.

ENEMIES THREE

There are with which the weak person generally has to contend.

WORK regularly consumes his strength, but often pays for what it takes.

WORRY lights the candle at the other end, and never pays at all.

DISEASE takes his limbs and deprives him of power of resistance.
